#MICROGALLERIES

Micro Galleries reclaims disused and forgotten spaces and reactivates them as tiny galleries that are free and accessible to the local community. It features work that challenges ingrained ideas, blurs the line between street art and fine art, and aims to help change the way we see the world, our environment and our community - even for a micro moment.

Featuring more than 30 international artists and over 20 local Shoalhaven artists, Micro Galleries sneaks up on you from lane ways, scraps of forgotten land, ignored walls and unexpected potholes. Wander about, discover new works and don't be surprised if they've disappeared, moved, or been changed by passers by - it's all part of the experience.

Join a free tour, grab a map, download on your phone or come hang in the Micro Space and experience the different ways artists are changing the world, and your town...in small and creative ways.
